

CONNECTIONS IN ANTHROPOLOGY

Sheba Ehteshami, PhD, MPH

Transformation Lead, BlackRock

Sheba is a program leader in the Human-Centered Design and Agile space with specific experiences in strategic ideation, development, and execution of these disciplines across a variety of industries - and primarily through service redesign and tech.

She has almost ten years of core consulting and multi-industry experience, which has afforded her the opportunity to manage large-scale transformations, collaborate with interdisciplinary teams, and drive a range of strategic and operational projects. She has worked extensively in supporting organizations looking to be more people-driven and data-centric.

An Emory alumna, Sheba received her BA in Anthropology and MPH in Health Administration & Policy. She also received her Doctorate in Organizational Change and Leadership from the University of Southern California. In her personal time, Sheba supports chronic cancer patients through their health journeys at Emory Healthcare and continues engaging with non-profit efforts in Puerto Rico.

Fri Nov 20
12-1pm EDT

RSVP in Handshake.

Join us via Zoom:

<https://emory.zoom.us/j/95724865093?pwd=Qm4yUHZ1d0ZjbG1BdWtONFozVWt2Zz09>