American Ethnological Society President. I served as the President of the American Ethnological Society beginning in the fall of 2007, and served a two-year term between 2007 and 2009.

Section Assembly Executive Committee. In the fall of 2008 I was elected to the Executive Board of the Section Assembly of the American Anthropological Association, and served a one-year term between 2008 and 2009.

Section Assembly Working Group. In January of 2007 I was elected to the Section Assembly Working Group, which designed new guidelines to give the sections of the American Anthropological Association a more active voice in the affairs of the Association.

American Ethnological Society President-Elect. During the spring of 2005 I had the honor of being elected President-elect of the American Ethnological Society, and served a two-year term between 2005 and 2007.

Critique of Anthropology. From 2001 until 2011 I was the North American editor for this respected, international journal.

Human Rights Committee, American Anthropological Association (AAA). In the fall of 2005 I finished a 3-year elected position on the Committee for Human Rights of the AAA.

New England Council on Latin American Studies (NECLAS). From 2000 to 2003 I served a 3-year, elected position on the Executive Board of NECLAS.

Canadian Immigration and Refugee Board. Here, I act as an expert witness and case evaluation consultant regarding Peruvians seeking political asylum in Canada.

Coeur d'Alene Indian Tribe. From 1995 to 1998 I assisted the Coeur d'Alene tribe in its efforts to reclaim aboriginal territory and have contamination from a century of gold and silver mining removed from this territory. I was responsible for conducting field and archival research in support of the tribe's claims to contested territory. The tribe was a co-litigant, along with US Department of Justice, against a consortium of mining companies.

Biographical Statement. David Nugent holds a Ph.D. in Anthropology from Columbia University, and is currently Professor of Anthropology at Emory University. He has done field research in the eastern Canadian arctic on Inuit subsistence patterns, in east Africa on government-sponsored sorcery eradication, in the Peruvian Andes on state formation and underground political movements, and in the western U.S. on indigenous land and water rights. His areas of specialization include: political and economic anthropology; race, ethnicity and nationalism; Latin America; agrarian society; and the anthropology of the state. Nugent is the award-winning author and editor of several books, including The Encrypted State: Delusion, Denial and Displacement in the Northern Peruvian Andes (Stanford University Press, 2019); Modernity at the Edge of Empire: State, Individual and Nation in the Northern Peruvian Andes, 1885-1935 (Stanford University Press, 1997); Locating Capitalism in Time and Space: Global Restructurings, Politics and Identity (Stanford University Press, 2001); (with Joan Vincent) A Companion to the Anthropology of Politics (Blackwell Press; 2004, a Choice Magazine “Outstanding Academic Title of 2004”); (co-edited with Christopher Krupa) State Theory and Andean Politics: New Approaches to the Study of Rule (University of Pennsylvania Press, 2015), and (co-edited with Ben Fallaw) State Formation in the Liberal Era: Capitalisms and Claims of Citizenship in Mexico and Peru (University of Arizona Press, 2020). He has also published widely in journals on issues related to the political, economic and historical anthropology of Latin America. Nugent has two ongoing projects. The first of these is a volume (co-edited with Ben Fallaw) that focuses on geographies of capitalism comparative processes of state formation in Latin America. Entitled, Beyond the Nation-State in Latin America: Transnational Flows and Subnational Spaces, the book is currently in preparation. Nugent’s second ongoing project is a volume that examines the emergence of alternative forms of democracy and underground, shadow states in twentieth century Peru. The volume is entitled, Dark Fantasies of State: Discipline, Democracy and Dissent in Northern Peru, and is near completion. In June of 2009, Nugent received a grant from the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation to establish a new Master’s Degree Program in Sustainable Development Practice at Emory University. In 2016 and 2018, he received grants from the Henry Luce Foundation that focus on exploring “Epistemologies of Practice”—new forms of graduate training that move beyond the limitations imposed by the structure of the contemporary research university. During the summer of 2021, Nugent will be a Visiting Research Fellow at the Centro Incontri Umani, in Ascona, Switzerland, where he is completing book called Sacropolitics: Group Sacrifice and the State of Redemption in the Northern Peruvian Andes. Nugent is also the 2016 recipient of the Marion V. Creekmore Award for Internationalization.
